Kaua'i police to hold next Coffee with a Cop in Kīlauea

KĪLAUEA – Join the Kaua'i Police Department for its next Coffee with a Cop from 10 a.m. to noon on Feb. 22 at Anaina Hou Community Park's Café in Kīlauea.

The event is an opportunity to meet and greet your community police officers and talk story in a casual setting over a cup of coffee.

“Our first event at Kaua'i Coffee Company in Kalāheo was such a huge success that we wanted to hold another one as quickly as possible,” said Chief of Police Todd G. Raybuck, who will be in attendance. “This time, we decided to not only offer it on the other side of the island in order to give Anahola and North Shore residents a chance to attend, we are hosting it over the weekend in hopes that even more people will be able to swing by.”

Coffee with a Cop is entirely agenda-free and the public is welcome to discuss topics, such as crime prevention, with officers one-on-one. It allows the community to meet in a relaxed atmosphere, and develop trust, as well as nurture a meaningful bond with police officers.
